WASHINGTON, August 21.

CONSTITUTIONAL.

The excesses offered for the reassembling of Congress in September is that additional legislation is required for the preservation of peace and the protection of the "soil" masses in the South.

The thieving propertaries and insolent behavior of the blacks are daily exacerbating the citizens more and more. Many would leave if they had the means. Not one hope for any relief under the present Congress.

WICKETON VS. ROLLINS.
